SpiceJet gets to work with revitalised Boeing 737 MAX

ONBOARD EXPERIENCE: Less noisy, more fuel-efficient, more legroom

New Delhi, 23 November

he aviation industry can do with quiet efficiency, rattled as it has been by the Covid-19 pandemic.

A revitalised Boeing 737 MAX aircraft, which SpiceJet is hinging on to transform the low-cost carrier's prospects, brings this very same promise of getting down to the repair job with minimum fuss. And literally so.

Before embarking on a breezy flight on Tuesday, carrying a press contingent from New Delhi along with aviation minister Jyotiraditya Scindia to his borough of Gwalior and back, one was privy to the note of optimism among officials of SpiceJet and Boeing.

Since the Federal Aviation Administration cleared the decks for the grounded aircraft exactly a year ago, 175-plus out of 195 global regulators have opened their airspace to the 737 MAX, and 32 airlines have resumed their fleets to service. For SpiceJet, it is a potential game changer as an economical aircraft that burns 20 per cent less fuel — the most expensive component of input costs —and incurs lower engineering costs, too.

'We are happy that the aircraft has been reinducted; it's the backbone of SpiceJet's fleet," gushed SpiceJet chief Ajay Singh before takeoff. Belying fears over MAX's benighted past of being grounded after two fatal crashes (see box), Singh promised that it is the safest aircraft with no complaints of glitches following a software update and SpiceJet's own recent trials. SpiceJet's eventual aim is to replace all of its older Boeing 737-NG fleet with the MAX, and Singh is certain that flyers wouldn't opt out of it.

A brunch and a press conference later, the proof of the pudding was in the eating. The aircraft, with its imposing wings and turbine engines, was parked for a good half hour longer than the planned 2 pm start. Scindia walked up the boarding stairs first, quietly past a gaggle of reporters and photographers. As the rest moved in and the plane taxied, one of the first signals of a smooth operator was how one wasn't alerted by the familiar "barking" sound — when a device that balances hydraulics is at play.

As it took off also, the engine settled into a hum rather than a roar, and justified the claim that the new jet emanates 40 per murs of not getting any new word out of him cent less noise footprint, resulting in a quieter

Fleet of all 13 MAX to take off soon

LOW-COST CARRIER SPICEJET RESUMED SERVICES OF THE BOEING 737 MAX, which had been a backbone of its passenger fleet and was grounded for two-and-a-half years, on Sunday

As its sole operator in India, SpiceJet hopes to significantly improve its bottom line with the 737 MAX, which its chairman Ajay Singh promised is the safest aircraft to fly and also more sustainable and less noisy than its older fleet. The 737 MAX was grounded globally after 346 people were killed in two airline crashes - off the Indonesian coast and in Ethiopia - in 2018-19.

SpiceJet had struck a $22-billion deal with Boeing for the delivery of up to 205 aircraft in 2017. Thirteen aircraft that had been in operation for six months and remained in India are resuming services now. Two aircraft are flying currently, while the rest are expected to in another 15-20 days - on domestic as well as international routes. Singh said the airline will try to expedite delivery of 50 MAX aircraft by 2023, starting December 10. Out of the 50, 15-20 will replace existing ones.

a cut in nitrogen emissions by 50 per cent, up meal of fruits, paneer rolls, a vermicelli salad, to 20 per cent less fuel than older 737s, and more legroom than other carriers in its class. The roominess was accentuated by lean black-cushioned seats that come with an adjustable headrest.

Another temptation is in the offing — the aircraft is equipped with Satcom The aircraft is that will enable it to offer broadequipped with band internet on board. SpiceJet Satcom that will has promised to introduce the feaenable it to offer ture soon, and for free initially. The broadband internet only exception will be no voice call, as it could disturb passengers. No sooner had the flight rid of the seat belt sign than a rush for a sound byte from the aviation minister ensued. But the reporters although he addressed them patiently. For and silent cabin. Its other efficiencies include those who stayed put, the reward was a quick mixed fruit juice and a dessert.

The sun shone brighter as the aircraft touched down on Gwalior, within 40 minutes of leaving from a sunny, smoggy Delhi, The minister left quietly, and the airline's officials, crew and ground staff joined together for photo-ops on a red carpet on the tarmac.

The return flight, minus the minister, was swift and with less incident — as short trips tend to be.

Earlier in the day, Singh stressed that the airline's objective is to clean up its balance sheet and promised a new spirit and SpiceJet 2.0, come January. He also anticipates a new class of first-time flyers — who took to flying for lack of options post-Covid, despite fears — adding to traffic growth as the aviation sector recovers with vaccination picking up

The Boeing 737 MAX, making a clean break with its past, will be the key to that cleanup.

INDIA'S DRUG CHASE COULD BE ON THE WRONG TRAIL

The country has more cases registered for personal drug use than murder; it is cracking down on cannabis when opioids appear to be the bigger problem

Mumbai, 23 November

The arrest of movie star Shah Rukh Khan's son, Aryan Khan, after a raid on a cruise ship party has put the focus on India's drug enforcement. While granting him bail, the Bombay High Court said: "The court prima facie has not noticed any positive evidence against Aryan Khan and two other." The Narcotics Control Bureau also alleged his friend. Arbaaz Merchant, was found with six grams of charas, which is made from the cannabis plant.

India's drug crackdown focuses on cannabis though the plant's products are gradually finding acceptance in other places. Canada, Italy, Germany and some places in the US have taken steps to legalise at least some cannabis products. India's National Crime Records Bureau has data on the quantity of drugs seized every year under the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances (NDPS) Act, 1985. The data shows that over 60 per cent of the total quantity of seized drugs in 2020 was cannabisbased as seen in chart 1

The lockdown to slow down the coronavirus may have contributed to higher cannabis seizures, according to Om Prakash Singh, former professor at the Nil Ratan Sircar(NRS) Medical College, Kolkata, whose work covers substance abuse.

"...cannabis is home-grown in India, heroin is mainly imported from other countries," he said.

India has more cases registered for personal druguse than murder: this holds true for the last few years for which comparable data is available.

Cases registered for drug trafficking are fewer (see chart 2).

This crackdown on users has been criticised as a ploy to boost conviction rates. The poor are often picked up and made to plead guilty, resulting in a quick conviction, according to earlier research by independent think tankthe Vidhi Centre For Legal Policy. An analysis of the 2020 numbers shows that the NDPS conviction rate is 81.6 per cent overall and 86.7 per cent for personal drug consumption cases. This drops to 44.1 per cent for murder cases and 39.2 per cent for cases related to crimes against women.

The state's crackdown on users would suggest that India has a cannabis problem. Data doesn't support that premise. India's cannabis use is lower than the global average, show numbers from the Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment's report entitled "Magnitude of Substance Use in India 2019".

The report suggested India's bigger problem is opioids. These cover opium, heroin and pharmaceutical opioids. Prevalence of their use in India is higher than the rest of the world (see chart 3).

 $\hbox{``Comparing the figures for }$ illicit drug use globally with India, while the prevalence of cannabis use is lower than the global average, prevalence of opioid use...(in)...India is three times that of global average," said the report.

"Purely legal approach to drug use has failed to meet with success, and strategies are shifting to harm reduction, which include decriminalisation of substance use, and treatment and rehabilitation," said Om

Prakash Singh.
